MAGIC CASEMENTS

1959

Lodi High School

Lodi, New Jersey

25..

For twenty-five years the annals of Lodi High have seen children enter and young men and women depart.

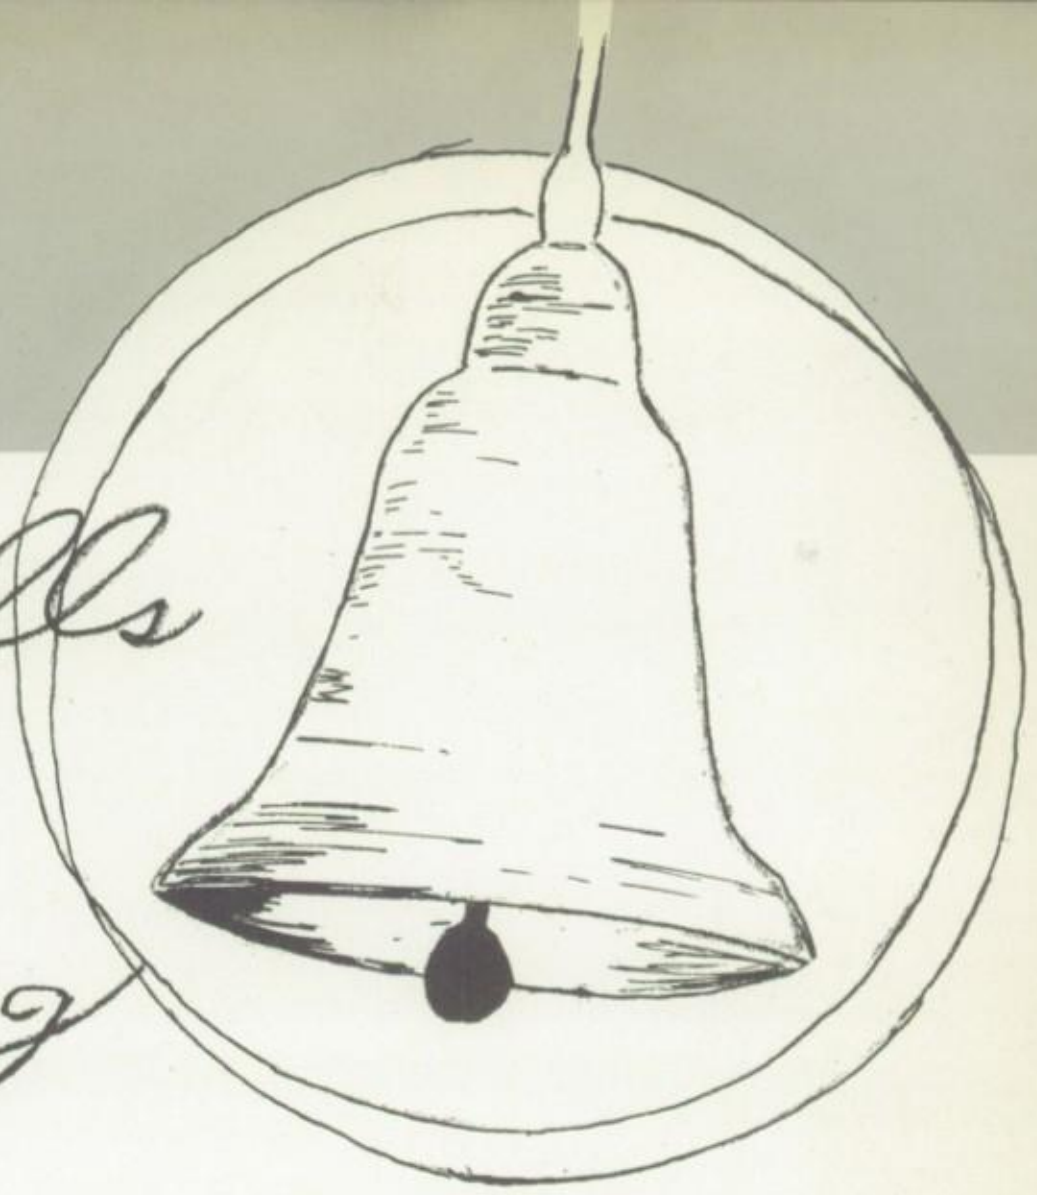
In the space of those years one builds lasting friendships and has fond memories. Although we have spent only four years at school, we too shall have cherished remembrances and very strong ties.

Some day perhaps, with God willing, after we have celebrated our own silver anniversaries, we may chance to come across this yearbook and reminisce about the four years packed with fun and learning.

As we embark on our own uncertain future, may the bells ring as joyously for us as they did in the poem "Bells" by Edgar Allen Poe: "Silver Bells!

What a world of merriment
their melody foretells!"

The Bells are Ringing



We, the Class of 1959, have the honor of graduating in the 25th year of Lodi High School. As a class, we are deeply conscious of this honor.

We learn in history that to understand the present we must know how past traditions came to be. Therefore, so that we may appreciate our present status, we shall relate the events of our past.

In 1934, when the members of the first class of Lodi High School started their career, they were without the exceptional opportunities of our present freshmen. But despite the limited facilities, these freshmen were responsible for an outstanding football team, and also for the dance that was to become our annual Sophomore Hop. It was the junior class which really laid our foundation, the Student Government. The president of this organization had a tremendous roll to assume and succeeding presidents have had to work very diligently to follow the traditions established under his leadership.

Socially, the class established itself in a regal manner by sponsoring another outstanding social event, the Junior Prom, which was held in the high school gymnasium. Scholastically, they were brought to the foreground by instituting a local chapter of the National Honor Society.

The seniors of '36 were conscious of the high position they had attained. They were a class of accomplishments and realized ambitions. We, the Seniors of 1959, have endeavored to follow their lead.

Mr. Jerry Tamburello

Yearbook Adviser and American History Teacher

Mr. Frank Saluppo

Director of Extra-Curricular Activities
History and Economics Instructor

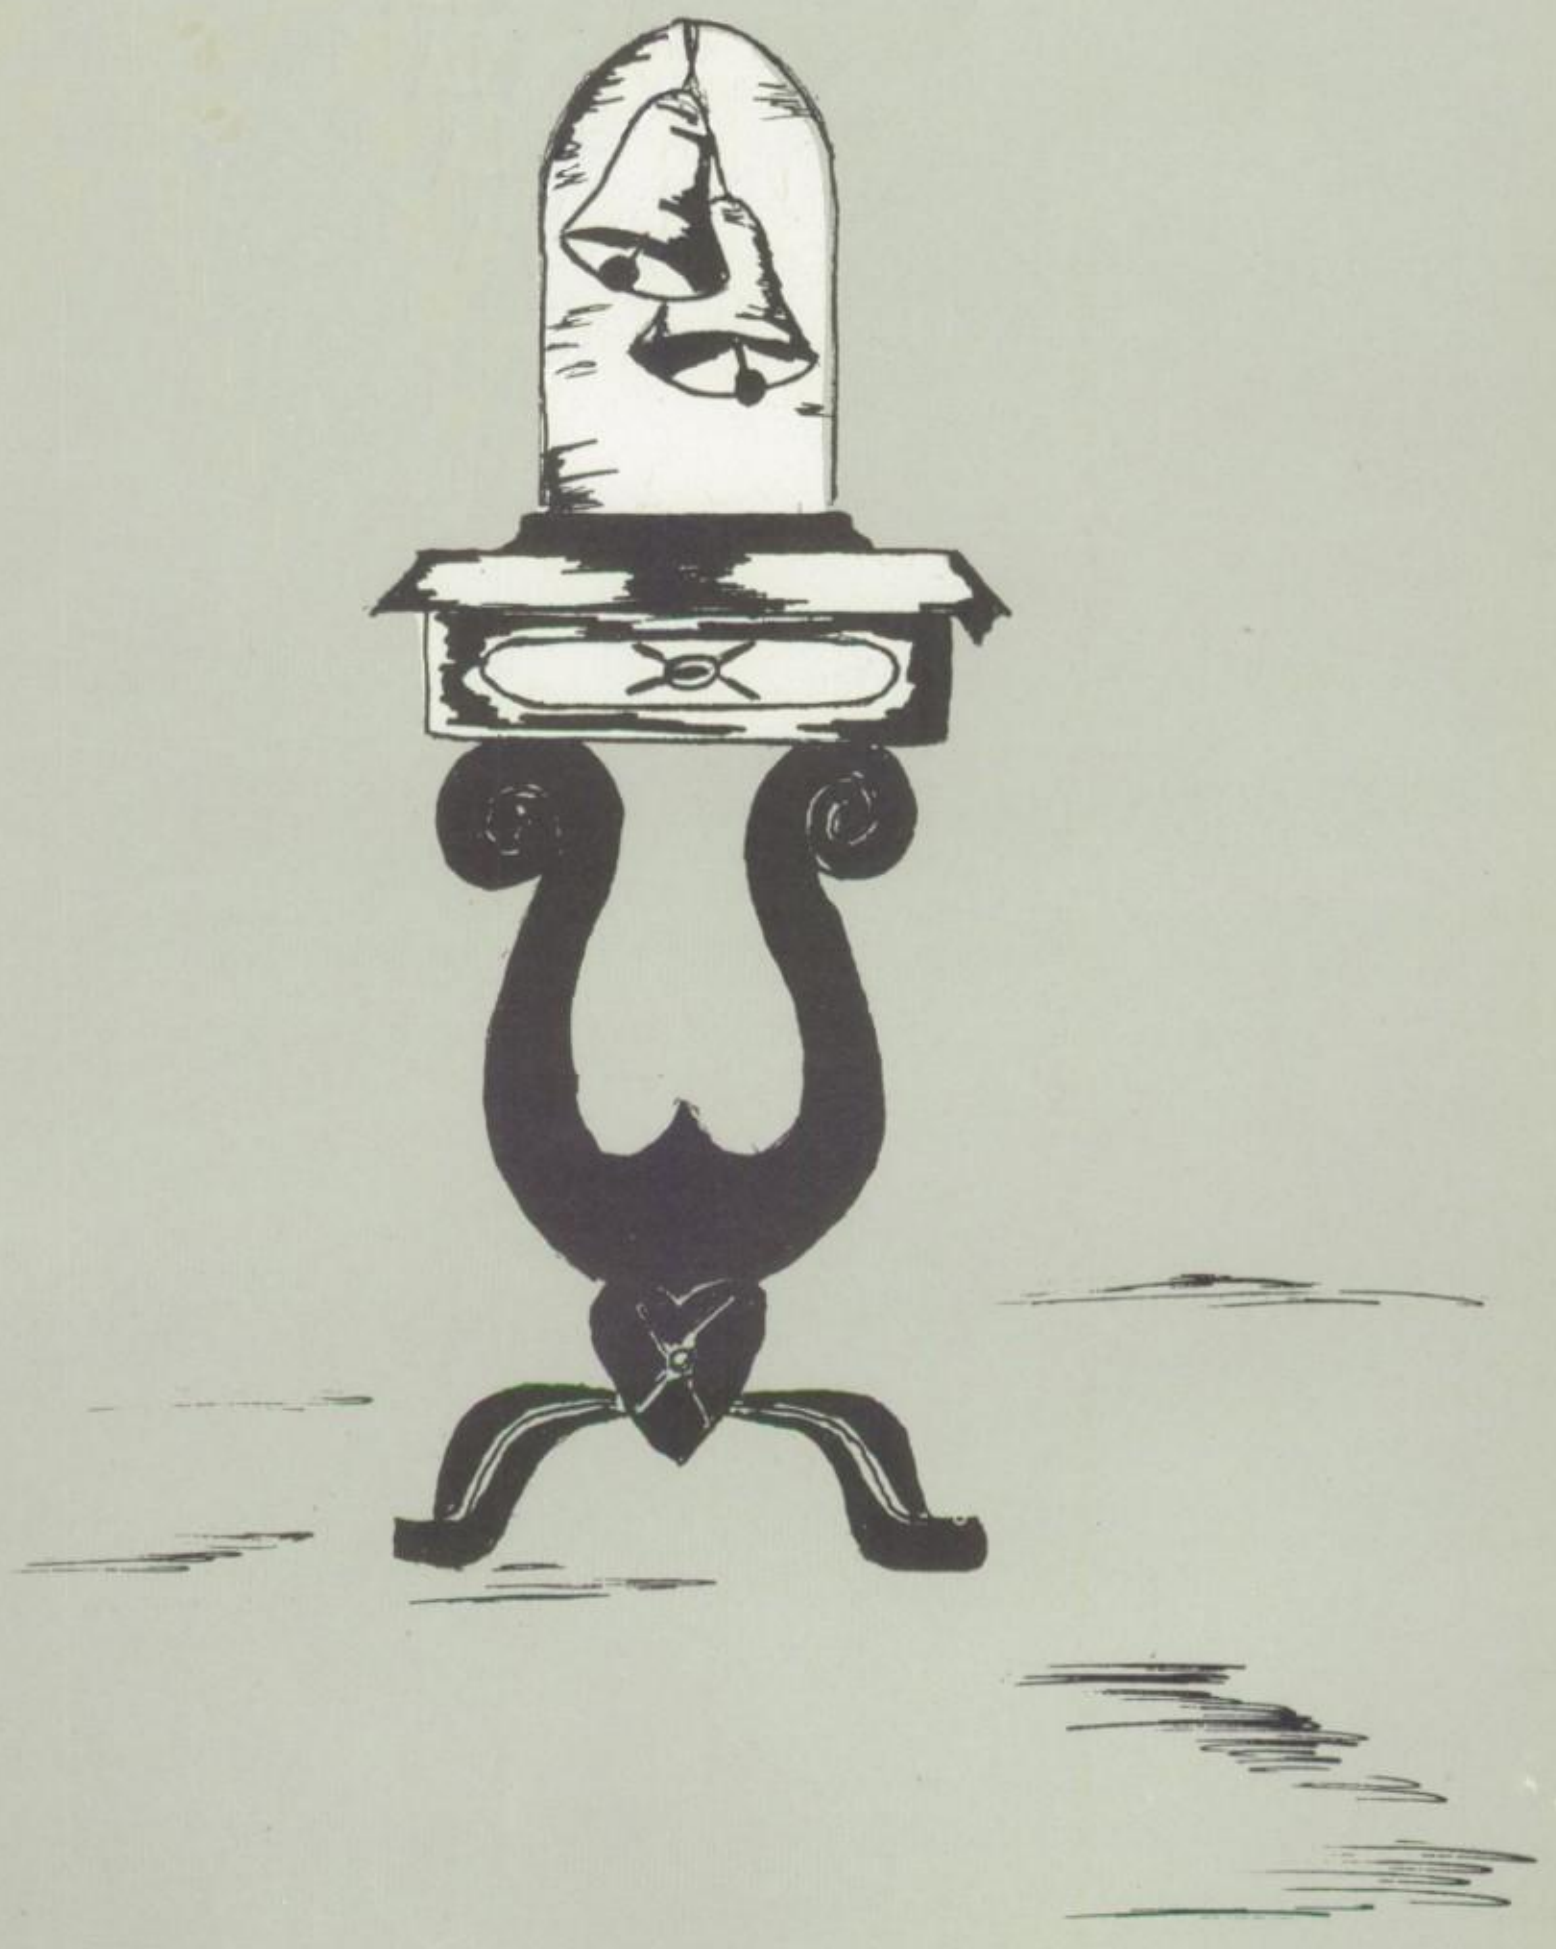
We Dedicate Our Yearbook to You . . .

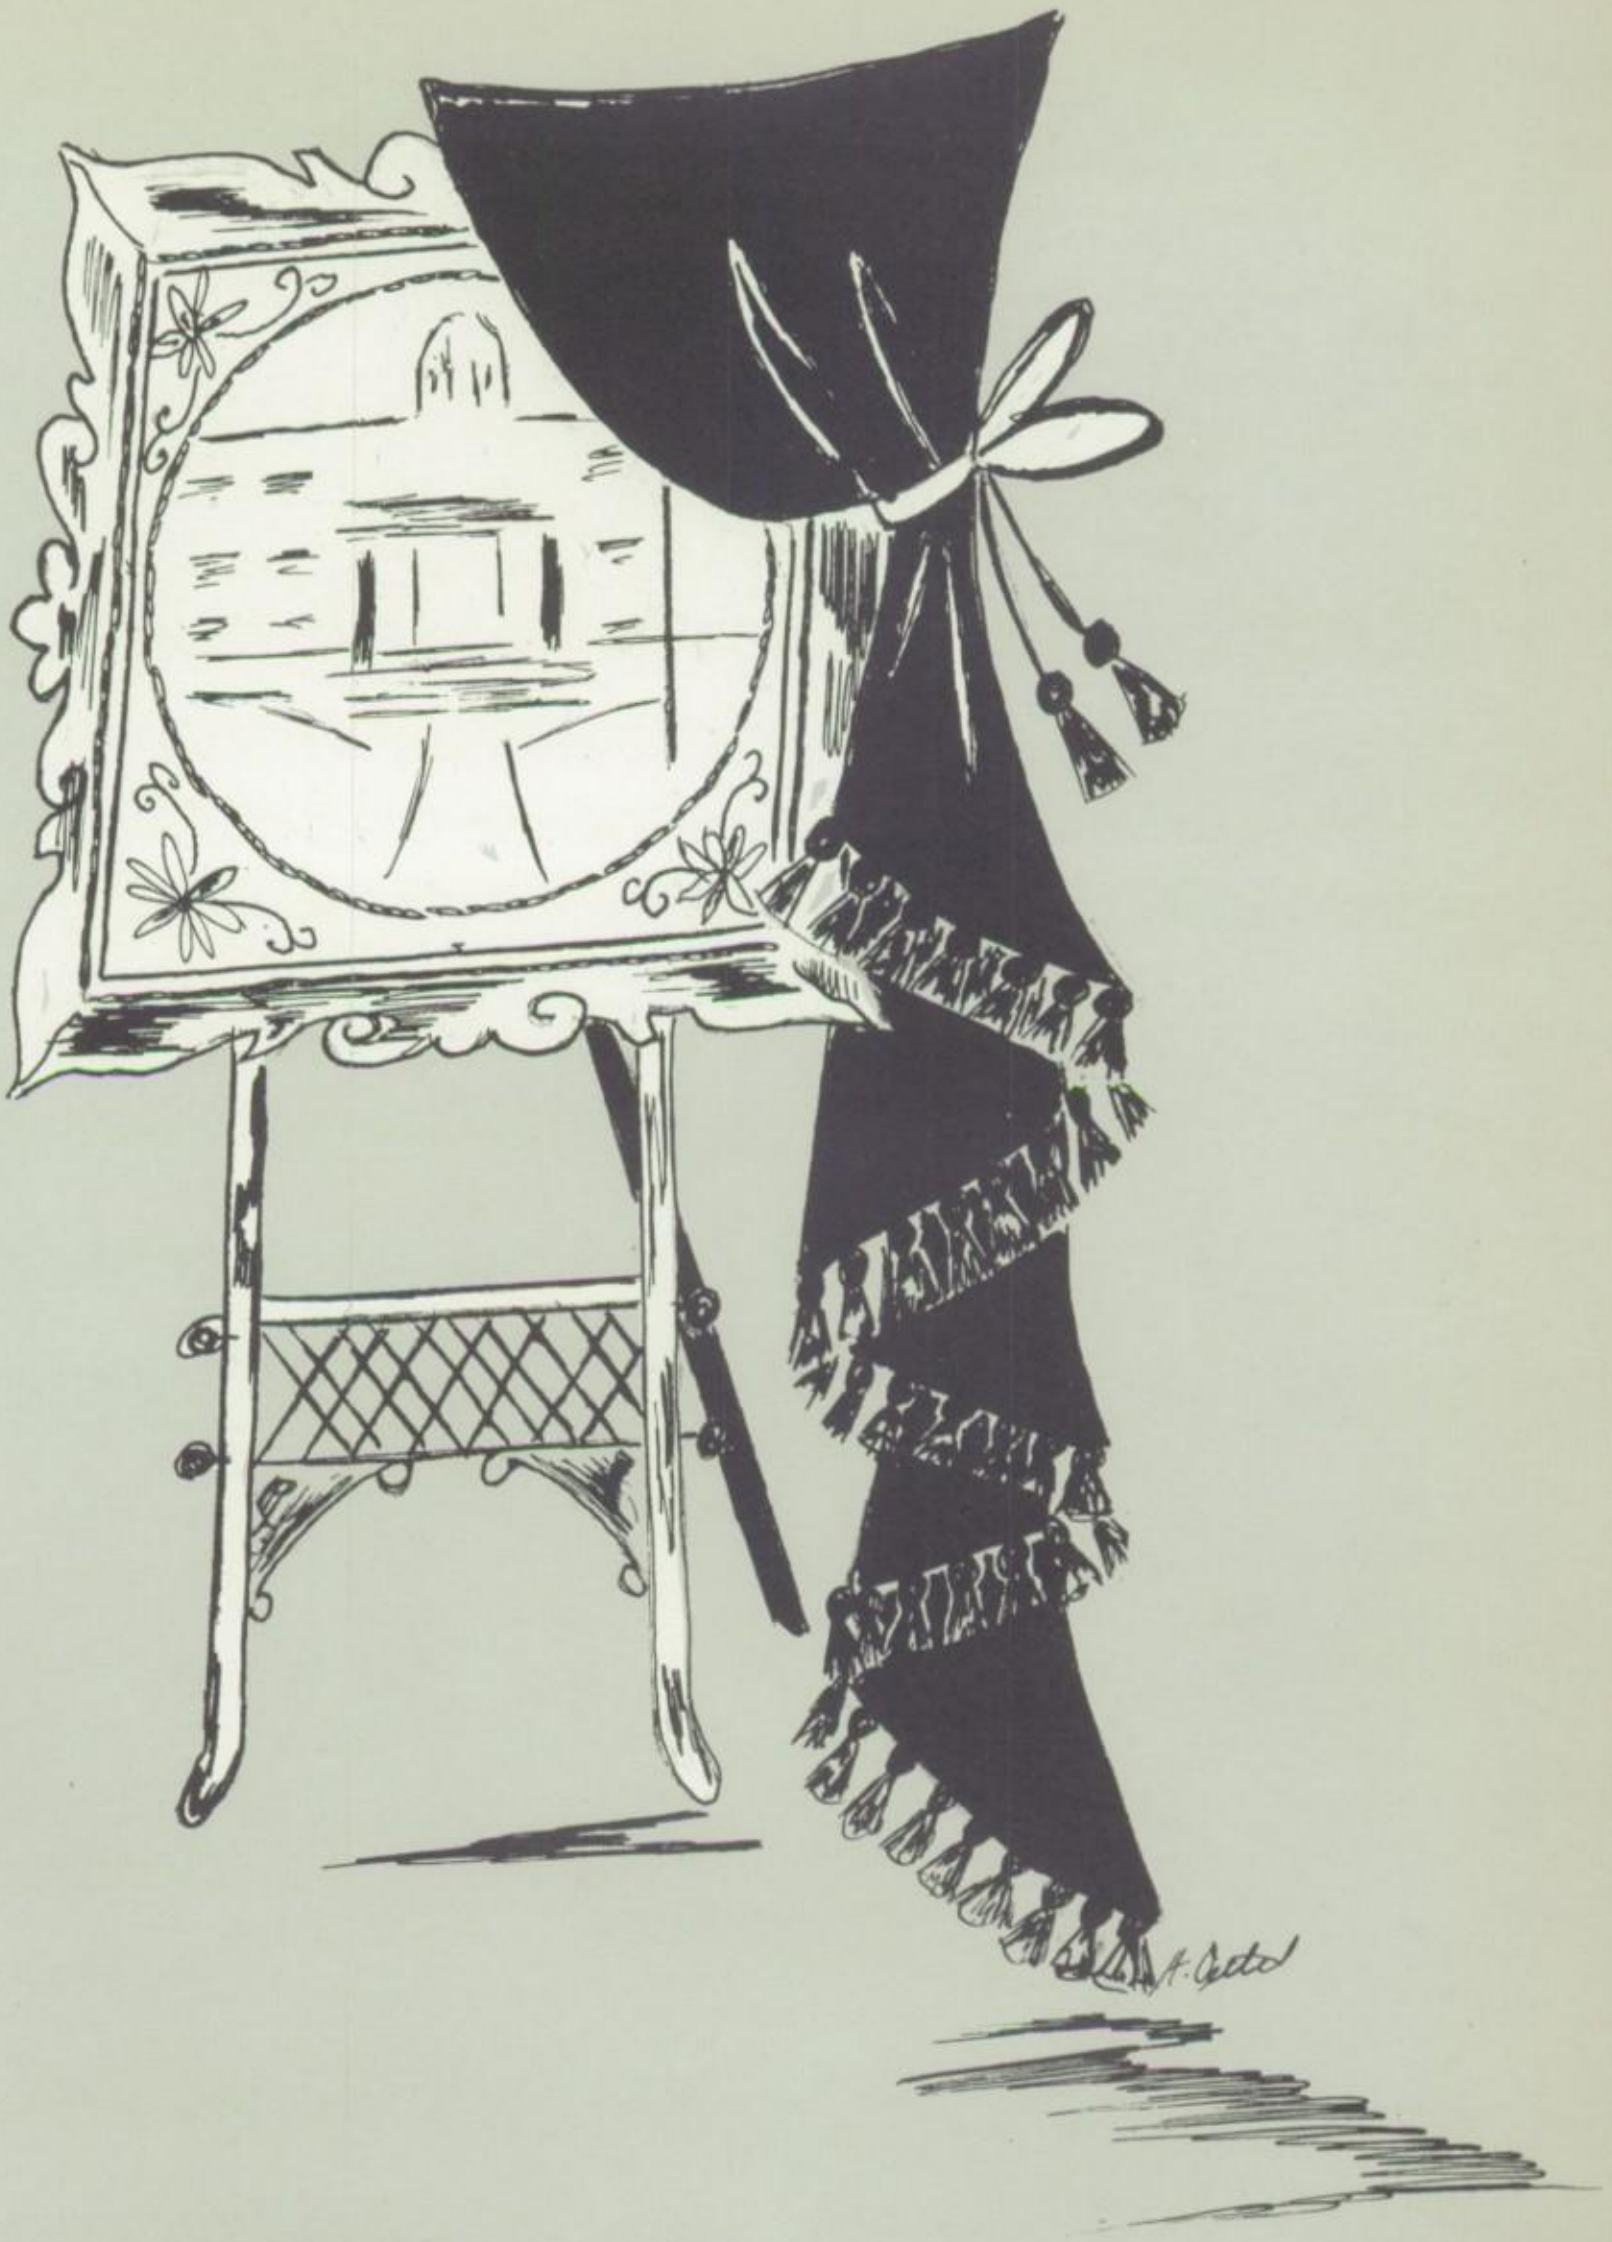
Mr. F. Saluppo and Mr. J. Tamburello

. . . for your untiring efforts in making our four years at Lodi High School memorable ones.

TO YOU, Mr. Saluppo, we give our thanks for your help in securing for us many enjoyable assemblies and extra-curricular activities.

TO YOU, Mr. Tamburello, we give our sincere appreciation for the infinite hours you have spent advising us on this yearbook and helping to make its publication a reality.





ADMINISTRATION

Board of Education

The members of the Board of Education are the men behind the scenes. Silently, but efficiently, these nine men strive to make our education as easy, as pleasant, and as worthwhile as possible by obtaining materials and providing for improvements that are needed throughout the school system.

Mr. Anthony H. Della Penta

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Mr. Della Penta, our Superintendent of Schools, is a most capable and widely respected man. Upon his shoulders rests the task of keeping our school up-to-date not only in general appearance, but also in teaching methods.

Mr. Joseph J. DiMinno

SECRETARY

The man who handles the administrative work for the board is their proficient secretary, Joseph Di Minno. We, the students of Lodi High School sincerely appreciate his efforts.

Principal's Message

Mr. Frank Gaciofano

PRINCIPAL

As the inerrable ticking of the clock brings to a close your high school careers, you, the members of the Class of 1959, can look back over the past four years with pride and deep satisfaction upon the memorable achievements of your group.

At the same time you must begin to prepare yourselves to meet straightforwardly, as individuals, the challenges that await you as you carve out new careers for yourselves.

The road to your new lives will be strewn with many obstacles, many apparently insurmountable. I have faith, however, that with courage and determination, you can complete your journies with distinction.

Mr. Pasquale Maggese

VICE PRINCIPAL

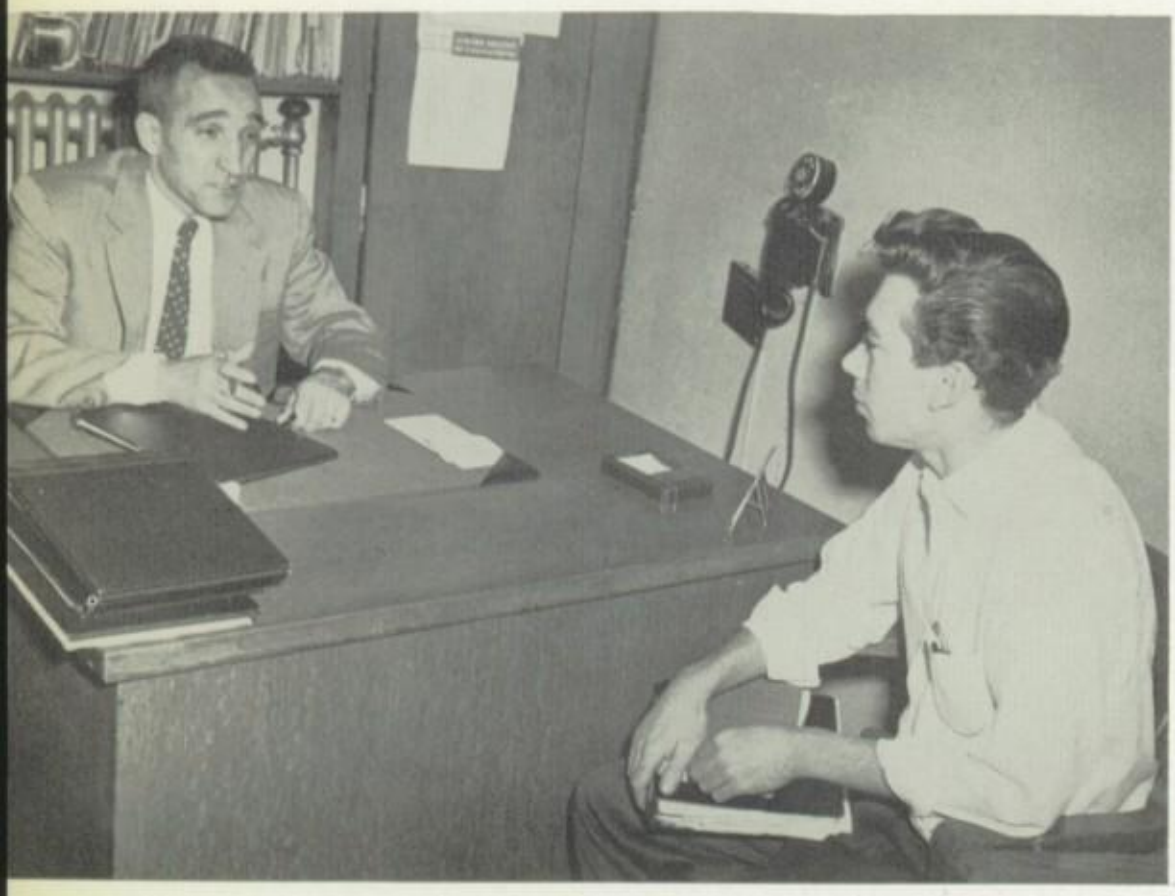
Our heartfelt appreciation goes to you, Mr. Pasquale Maggese, our Vice Principal. You have worked tirelessly to make us better students and citizens by showing us the right path when we deviated from it, and your patience and fortitude on our behalf will always be remembered with warm affection.

Mr. Patrick E. Tedesco

DIRECTOR OF CURRICULUM

Mr. Tedesco spends many hours each day planning the courses of study for the entire school. Because of his work, Lodi High now has a better and more efficient plan of study.

Guidance



Your expert guidance has helped us plan a program which will be most beneficial to us in the future. The true value of your advice will be fully appreciated as we build our futures and plan our careers.

Mr. Anthony Lalumia

GUIDANCE DIRECTOR

We are indebted to you, Mrs. Salva, for helping us plan our future and giving us assistance in attaining our goals. You have aided us not only in those matters pertaining to school, but in our social problems as well. For this, the Class of '59 expresses its sincere gratitude.

Mrs. Edith Salva

DEAN OF GIRLS

Honors Committee and Faculty Council

HONORS COMMITTEE

The honors committee is faced each year with the task of making two important and difficult decisions. First, they must evaluate students worthy of membership in the National Honor Society; and second, they must decide those who are to receive awards for their scholastic ability.

GUIDANCE COMMITTEE

The seniors will never forget the valuable help the Guidance Department has given, nor the friendly manner in which it was given. They have aided greatly in charting the courses many students have taken.

OFFICE STAFF

Working constantly, typing absentee lists, filing schedules, giving out new locker keys for lost ones; our office staff continues to maintain a cheerful and patient attitude.

Office Staff
Nurse's Office
Cafeteria

CAFETERIA

Appetites are quickly satisfied through the fine efforts of our cafeteria staff, who, amid a congenial atmosphere, prepare the enticing and delicious food served here.

NURSE'S OFFICE

For ordinary diseases and rare cases of English flu and P.A.D. fever, nurse Mrs. A. Natoli aptly accommodates students with accurate dosage of psychology and medicine.

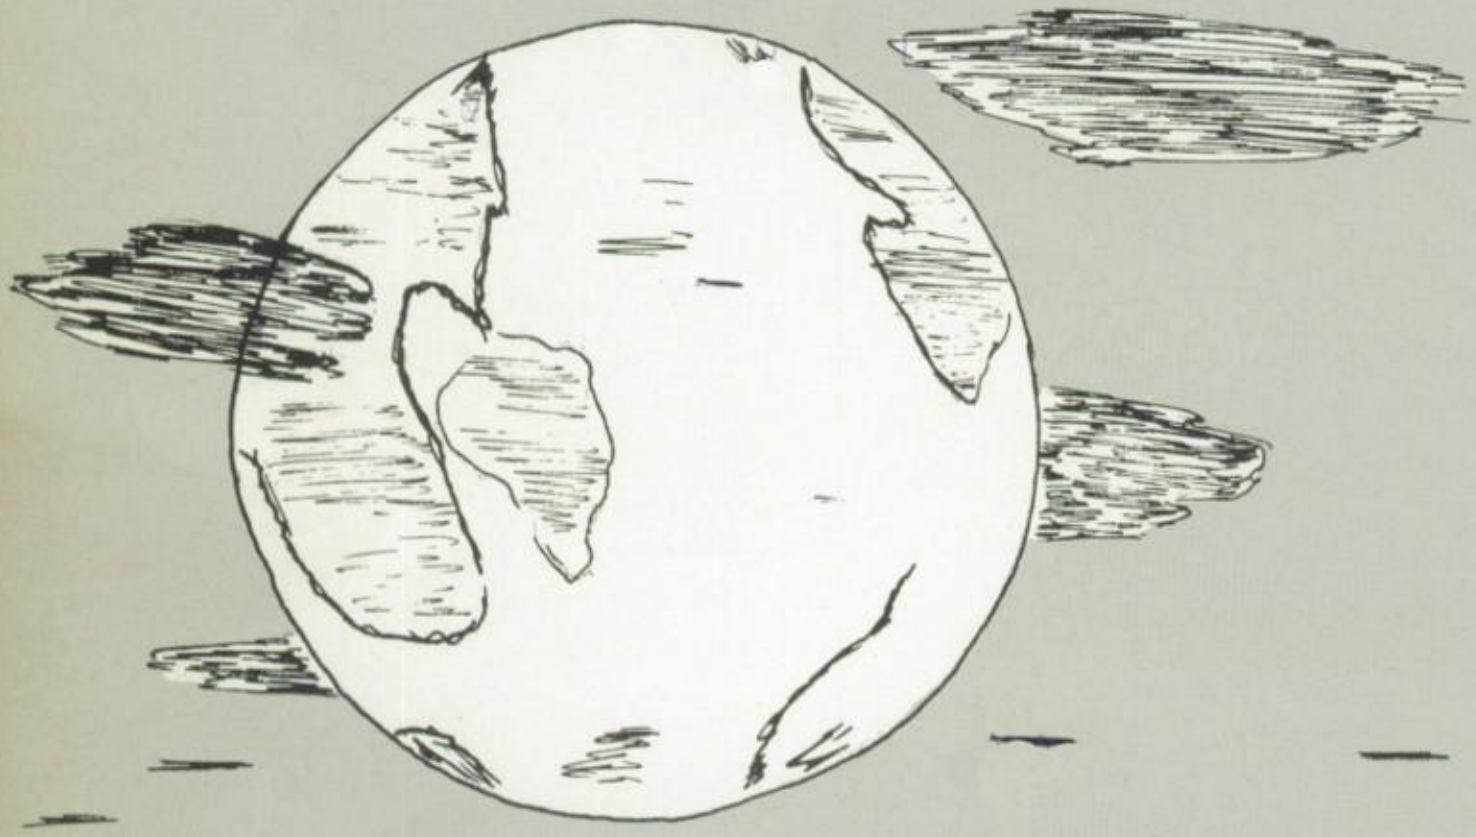
Attendance Officer and Janitors

MR. LOUIS PERILLO
Attendance Officer

"Who is absent and why?" This is the question asked daily by Mr. Perillo, our attendance officer, as he performs his daily chore at Lodi High School.

JANITORIAL STAFF

Because of the endless toil of our Janitorial staff, the standard appearance of Lodi High is kept up to par.



SENIORS

MR. STANLEY PIELA

Senior Class Advisers

Our advisers have both given us their time and effort which have helped us through our senior year. They possess helpfulness, thoughtfulness, and guidance — three qualities that have paved a special road in the life of each and every senior.

Many thanks to you both, Miss Svec and Mr. Piela.

MISS ELEANOR SVEC

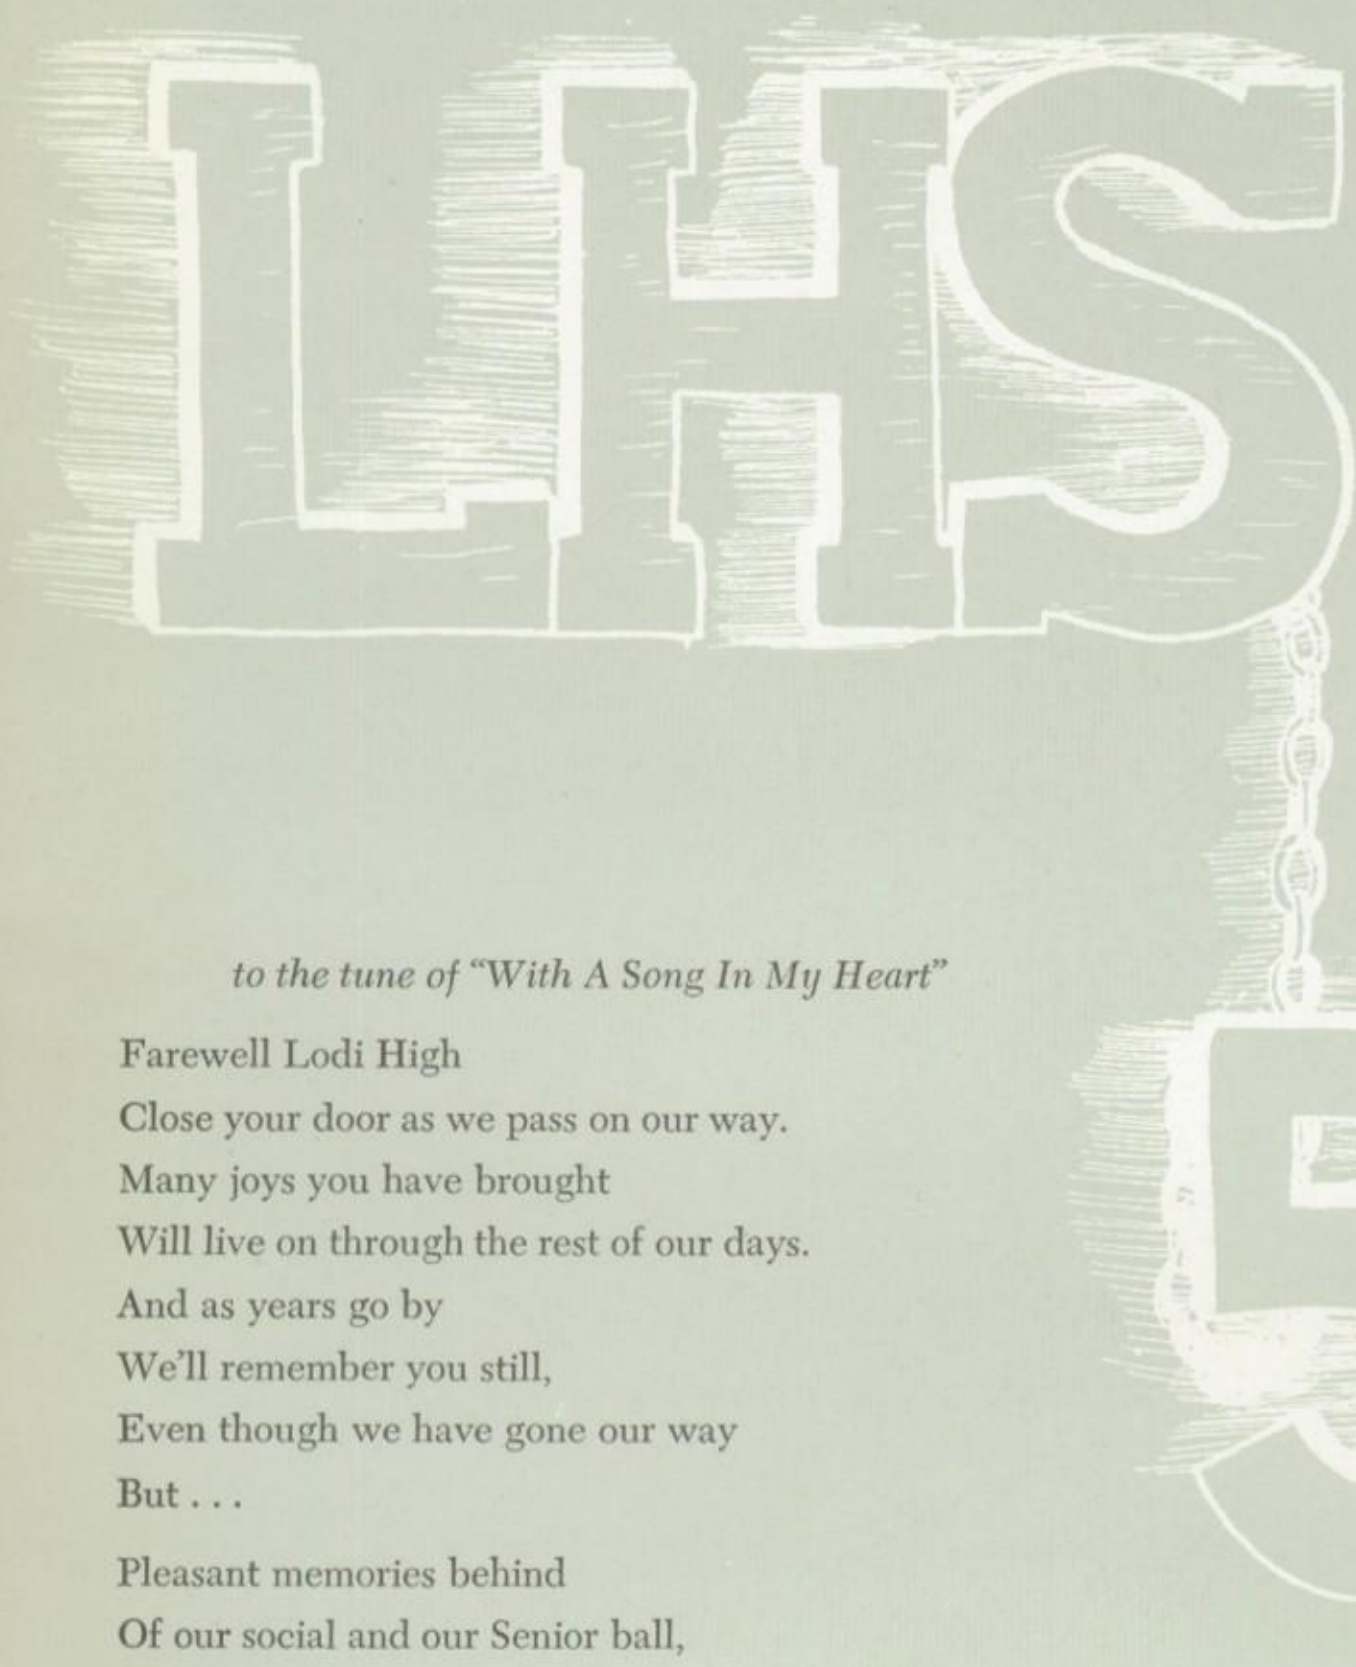
Senior Song



to the tune of "With A Song In My Heart"

Farewell Lodi High
Close your door as we pass on our way.
Many joys you have brought
Will live on through the rest of our days.
And as years go by
We'll remember you still,
Even though we have gone our way
But . . .

Pleasant memories behind
Of our social and our Senior ball,
Of the fun we have shared
Through the years we'll remember it all.
Now it's time to leave,
And our time has come,
So farewell Lodi High — good-by!

by Francine Guerriero

Class Poem

Look back upon that freshman day
When first you walked these halls so gay;
You made new friends and learned new ways,
And kept them through your sophomore days.
Then came that glorious junior year;
Your ring, the prom — you've grown more too,
Look at yourself, you'll find it's true.
Schools made you part of the world outside —
It's made you seek instead of hide.
September comes and of course you shout
"Look I'm a senior," to all about.
You're glad you're almost through, you say
But all too soon its graduation day.
The time has come for us to part,
Choose your path by your own heart;
And down that path in cap and gown
Each will walk with his own crown.
The right to wear it will come true
For those who really want it to.

Class

Our four years at Lodi High School have drawn to a close, but the memories we share will remain with us forever. Can we ever forget our fears when, as little freshmen, we invaded the halls of Lodi High School for the first time? Or the confusion as we asked, "How do you find the swimming pool?" and "Can you direct me to the elevator?"

For the first time we were forced to rise at the unearthly hour of 6:30 or 7:00 to arrive at school at 8:10, and for a while we slept through our first period classes.

Much to our dismay we found that, although we were the smallest in the school, we didn't get front row assembly seats, but were forced to sit "way up there" in the balcony. Although we couldn't see very well, the freshman Class of 1955 made sure everyone knew they were there.

Our first high school dance, the "Freshman Social," was capably organized by our newly elected class officers — Marianne Surowiec, Carmela Cina, Maryann Magarro, and Beverly Boggio. It was a great financial and social success, giving all the freshmen a chance to meet one another. Many of our lasting friendships originated at this dance. We also became acquainted with new subjects such as algebra and assorted languages, which left us completely confused, but we were helped by our freshmen guidance advisers, Mrs. L. Scandariato and Mr. P. Scandariato, who counseled us in both our social and scholastic problems.

That June, many of us experienced exams for the first time, and resolved to do better next year, so we would not have to suffer through them again. We learned what it meant to "cram for exams."

Our sophomore year brought signs of maturity, yet we still showed we were youngsters as we teased the incoming freshmen who were "definitely smaller" than we had ever been, and tried to figure out ways of not doing homework.

We learned in Latin the derivation of the word sophomore: sophos meaning wise, and moros, foolish. The teachers said moros was dominant.

Finally we got the seats downstairs, but they weren't much of an improvement, since we were seated behind those much taller juniors and seniors, way in the last rows.

It was during the 1956 football season that we were introduced to Ramus the First, our ram, who was to become the football team's official mascot, and Julius Caesar, who was to become a headache.

After vigorous campaigning and forceful campaign speeches, Sophomore class officers, under the direction of Miss Feoranz, were elected. With Louis March, Marilyn May, Phyllis Lattanzio, and Beverly Boggio.

With a theme of Stardust Fantasy, our Sophomore Hop provided an enjoyable evening while adding substantially to our class treasury.

We meditated on the position of Sophomores. Freshmen are cute, Juniors are smart, and Seniors are respected. We're just abused.

While looking forward to vacation time, we were all so worried about the exams we were sure we had failed, as we wondered where we were when some of the questions on those tests were being discussed in class.

Finally we reached the half way mark, still wondering "Will we ever make it?" We were somewhat heartened, however, by the fact that we were now almost in the front seats in assembly, and sometimes we knew what was happening on the stage.

As Juniors, we were honored when, after the results of the Student Council elections were announced, we found that a junior, Frances Lascari, had been elected as treasurer.

Distinction again came to our class when Judy Bacco was selected as one of the few juniors ever to serve as Miss Lodi High. Our happiness was not even marred by the fact that Judy was home in bed with the measles when the award was presented at a dance in her honor.

Two of our classmates, Marianne Surowiec and Carmela Cina, became varsity cheerleaders.

The theme of our Prom, Heavenly Spring, was beautifully carried out by our junior class officers, Frank Volpe, President; Lloyd Caldwell, Vice President; Maryann Magarro, Secretary; and Beverly Boggio, Treasurer. The Prom was held May 23rd at Donohue's Restaurant in Mountainview. The Prince and Princess, Matty Di Chara and Pauline (Cookie) Costa, crowned the King and Queen, Kenny Vertucci and Beverly Boggio, as we danced to the strains of our prom song, set to the tune of "Moments to Remember," and sung by Judy Bacco.

The operetta, "Pirates of Penzance," under the direction of our new voice instructor, Miss Jean Meurer, found a junior, Judy Bacco, in the lead female role. Other juniors in the cast included

History

Francine Guerriero, Christine Giardina, Maureen Jackson, and the Docherty twins, Eileen and Kathleen.

Toward the middle of our Junior year, we received our class rings. Now we were officially upper-classmen, and for a while the juniors looked as if there had been an epidemic of sore fingers as they went around with their hands outstretched, showing proudly their newly-acquired symbols of Lodi High School.

As our junior year drew to a close, we became aware of our future responsibilities as seniors when Mr. Gorman, business adviser for the yearbook, reminded us that $200 worth of patron slips, and much more in advertisements had to be secured by September. We worked with one goal in mind — all thinking "Next year we'll be seniors! What a future lies ahead!"

Finally came our long-awaited Senior year, fully equiped with front row assembly seats. What pride we felt as we strolled up and righteously took the seats we had waited three years to occupy. What a feeling of accomplishment!

During our Senior year many members of our class became prominent in student activities. Louis March was elected President of the Student Council, John De Simone, Vice President; Frances Lascari, Treasurer; and Barbara Pecorara, a junior, Secretary. Senior officers elected were Joseph Cardella, Lloyd Caldwell, Beverly Boggio, and Francine Guerriero. Presiding officers of the major clubs included: Vocational Club, Arlene Branca; Tri Hi Y, Phyllis Lattanzio; Hi Y, Louis March; and National Honor Society, Joseph Pellegrino. The Jefferson News Editorial Board was comprised of Cecelia Scibetta, Arlene Branca, Frances Lascari, Maureen Murphy, Marie Cangialosi, and Arlene Oettel.

Arlene Branca and Cecelia Scibetta headed the business staff.

Mr. Jerry Tamburello, adviser of the yearbook, directed a staff headed by Cecilia Scibetta and Marie Cangialosi, co-editors, and Arlene Oettel, art editor, assisted by Carole Walker. At last our senior activities were under way. How we worked to beat our yearbook deadlines after we found everything had been left for the last minute.

Marianne Surowiec headed the business staff with Frank Volpe, and Mr. Groman chased after us in senior home room to "get that money in!" as he piled us with boxes and boxes of Christmas cards.

Immediately after Christmas vacation we unhappily learned that Mrs. Lucy Scandariato, our Senior college English teacher, had taken a leave of absence, to be capably replaced by Miss Florance Laverty. We also unhappily learned that we must begin work on Macbeth, which we put off until "To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow," and term papers in both English and chemistry. There were also experiments with sulphur in the chemistry lab that took the school days to get over. To think that we had envied the seniors!

Of course, there were compensations, such as the class plays, ("Elmer and the Love Bug," "The Weird Sisters," and "The Pajama Party,") and the pride in the gold sequence honor pins received by many of our classmates.

Our new Dean of Girls, Mrs. Edith Salva, and Guidance Director Mr. Anthony Lalumia, aided us in selecting careers and colleges as our senior year drew to a close.

Senior pictures had to be taken, and, of course, we were disappointed to learn we didn't photograph as well as movie stars.

Then, "Washington, here we come!" was heard among the excited shouts as we bid our parents good-by and left for our nation's capitol on Tuesday, April 7, at 6:30 in the morning. Tired, but happy, we returned four days later with little sleep but hundreds of fond memories and souveniers to be treasured throughout our years.

Now, all that was left was to plan for Baccalaureate and Graduation — but before them came the inevitable Senior Exams! How could we possibly remember all the work? Questions such as "Where was Shakespeare born?" and "Can you define the Democratic System of Government?" were tossed at us from all over during the frantic reviewing and "cramming" periods.

Finally came the results. Was it really possible that we had passed? Another week and it would be all over. The four years had ended — much too quickly. It seemed only yesterday that we were planning for our freshman activities. Now, as alumni, we look back over these years of happiness and sorrow, years of scholastic achievement and social activities that have shaped our lives, and we think of the last lines of our School Song . . .

"Thee we honor, Alma Mater,
Honor Jefferson"

Looking back now with combined hopes and fears, the juniors realize that their last step is about to be taken.

They are anxious to gain the title of Seniors, a goal for which they have struggled earnestly to reach. They pause and remember with joy their Junior Prom and recall with pride the

After many weeks of spirited discussion, the 25th Anniversary of Lodi High School finally emerged as the theme of the 1959 edition of Magic Casements.

Immediately, work was begun under the direction of Mr. Tamburello, and although there were the usual discussions and friendly disputes (over almost every page), it progressed rapidly, if at first somewhat chaotically.

Meetings were held at someone's house practically every night, where we filled pages with copy and ourselves with Coke and potato chips. Mr. Tam's home was also invaded, a few times at nine on Saturday mornings, by a battery of confused editors and artists. Soon, however, fragmentary copy and rough sketches grew into finished pages and the Yearbook emerged ready for the presses.

Although we complained and at times had to be rushed a little for those last minute deadlines, we enjoyed the work, for this is our contribution to the year we consider the best in the twenty-five year history of our school.

It contains all the wonderful moments — the enchantment of formals, the enjoyment of plays, and the school-spirit instilled by our sports events.

When Cokes and potato chips are no longer an essential part of our daily diet, and our own children are looking forward to their first formals, we will be able to open this, our own book, and recapture the magic of four years at Lodi High.

Jefferson News Editorial Staff

The Jefferson News editorial staff is always alert for news. In class they are taught the fundamentals of news coverage and writing, so that they might apply them in their school publication.

The aim of the Jefferson News is to reflect the life, interests, and activities of Lodi High School students.

Business Staff of the Jefferson News

The Business Staff of the Jefferson News is the organization in charge of securing the funds with which to publish our school publication. Under the direction of Mr. Niosi, the staff receives ads from local merchants, and homeroom representatives receive $.10 each copy from every student.

Art Club

Through the efforts of the Art Club, the stage for our special assemblies have been beautifully decorated. These obliging members never refuse to contribute their share toward making any affair a success.

Stage Crew

Without these boys, our assembly programs could not be half as enjoyable as they are. They are always ready to pull a curtain, turn on a spotlight, carry furniture, and so many other odd jobs.

Projectionists

It is the projectionists who, by running the projectors when educational films are show in various classes, help to make our learning more enjoyable.

National Honor Society

The greatest honor that any student can receive is to be accepted as a member of the National Honor Society. The members are selected on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, and service. With the help of the advisers, Mrs. Hannigan and Mrs. Seyerlein, the society offers a one-hundred dollar scholarship and sponsors the Miss Lodi High Dance in conjunction with the Jefferson News.

Girls' Vocational Club

Membership in this club is open to junior and senior girls who are active members of their class. The purpose of this club is to present at teas, representatives of different occupational fields, thereby giving the girls an enlightenment into the various fields they might enter. To procure money for a scholarship, the club sells book covers, Christmas corsages, and holds an annual dance.

Everyone enjoys the dancing.

Congratulations from the old queen to the new.

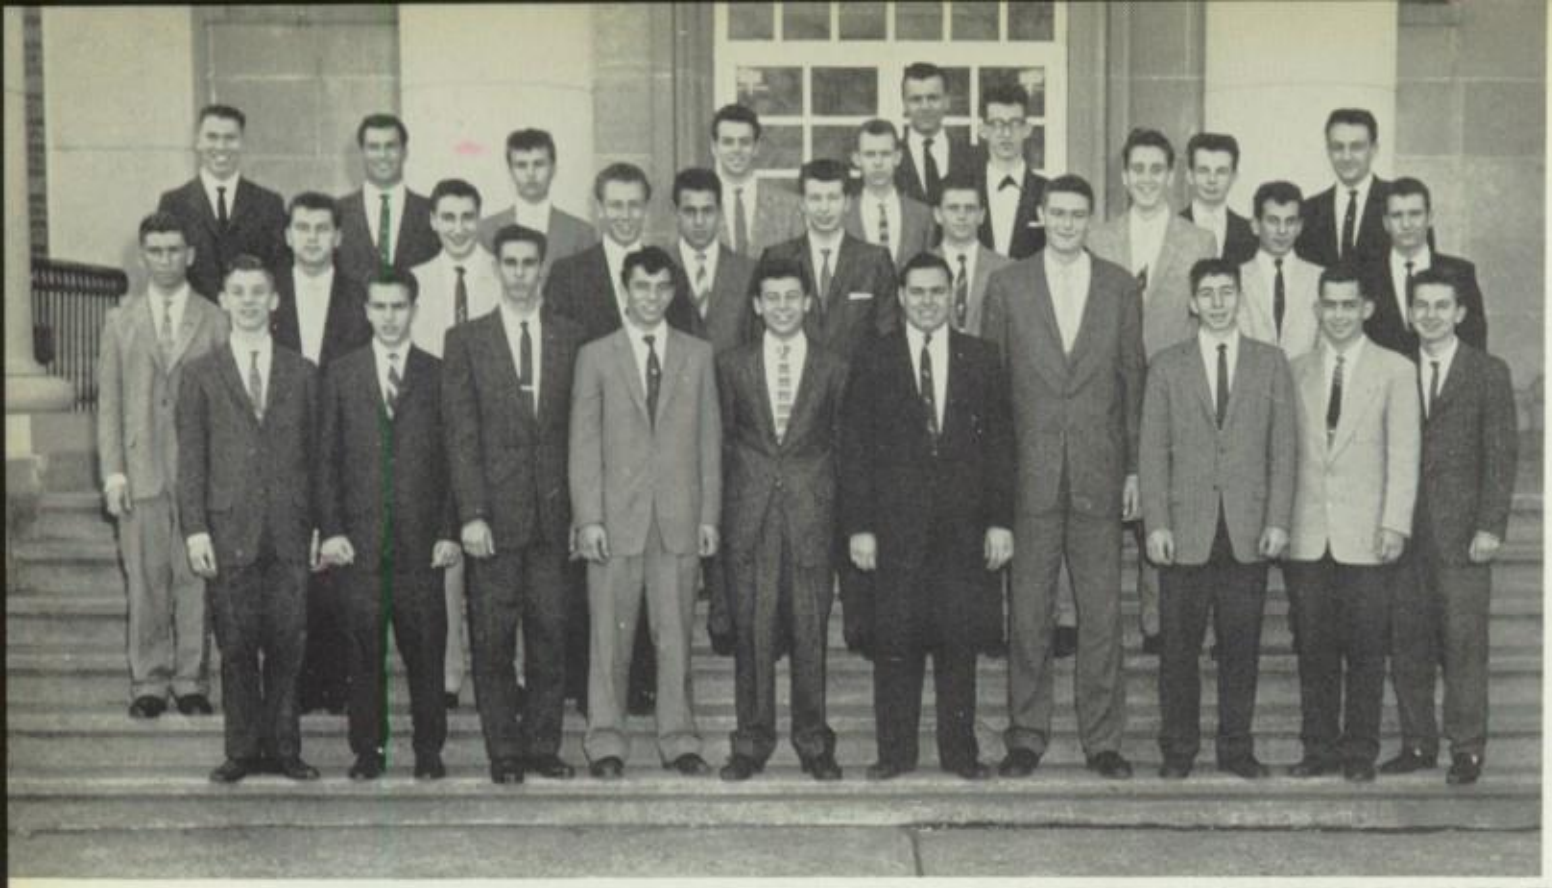
Miss Lodi High Dance

With April in Paris as a theme, the National Honor Society sponsored their annual dance and crowning of the new "Miss Lodi High School." Last year's queen, Judy Bacco, placed the crown upon the head of her successor, Marianne Surowiec, as the second, third, and fourth place contestants, Marie Cangialosi, Jade Parr, and Francine Guerriero, attended her as Ladies in Waiting.

Coronation of the Queen.

The new queen and her Ladies in Waiting.

Presentation of the trophy.



Hi-Y

Foremost in the Hi-Y obligations is the promotion of scholarship and clean sportsmanship. This national organization is a fellowship of boys, which aims to promote friendliness and general welfare throughout the school and community.

Tri-Hi-Y

Hi-Y Initiation

Girls' Athletic Club

The Girls' Athletic Club, under the direction of Mrs. Gifford, strives for physical fitness, which it believes is as important as mental fitness, in its members.

Office of Tomorrow

America's future secretaries and office workers, under the direction of Miss Fervola, are introduced to the business world through field trips to important industries, and by discussions held at regular meetings.

Future Nurses Club

Our school nurse, Mrs. Natoli, introduces to those girls interested in nursing careers the many facets of this life. Many members of the Future Nurses Club obtain work as aids in hospitals in order to prepare themselves for nursing school.

Concert Choir

Junior Choir

The Vocal Department, under the capable supervision of Mrs. Cicero, has added enjoyment to assembly programs throughout the school year. At many of the important ceremonies, such as the National Honor Society and Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y inductions, the choir has contributed to the solemnity and beauty of the occasion with its vocal renditions.

Glee Club

Band

The Lodi High School Band is a vital influence in the promotion of school spirit at games and at pep rallys. Under the direction of Mr. Opsahl, the band has increased tremendously and is still growing.

Our school orchestra has been functioning more than ever before in adding that final touch of enjoyment to the outstanding social programs of the year.

Orchestra

Spanish Club

The purpose of the Spanish Club is to secure for its members a better understanding of the Spanish language and culture.

French Club

Not only obtaining a knowledge of French grammar but also acquiring a knowledge of French speaking and culture has become the aim of every French student. With informal sessions and field trips the club has tried to elaborate on these endeavors.

Italian Club

By attending Italian shows and restaurants this club has perceived a definite knowledge of Italian culture.

German Club

The German Club is among the active clubs in the high school. At meetings they discuss the history and culture of the German people, helping to form a better understanding between the peoples of the world.

Forum Group

The World Forum presents a panel discussion pertaining to world affairs at assembly programs, as well as at their regular meetings.

Bible Club

The Bible Club is a fairly new and highly successful club at Lodi. By being part of this club, the members fulfill their desire to learn and understand more about the Bible.

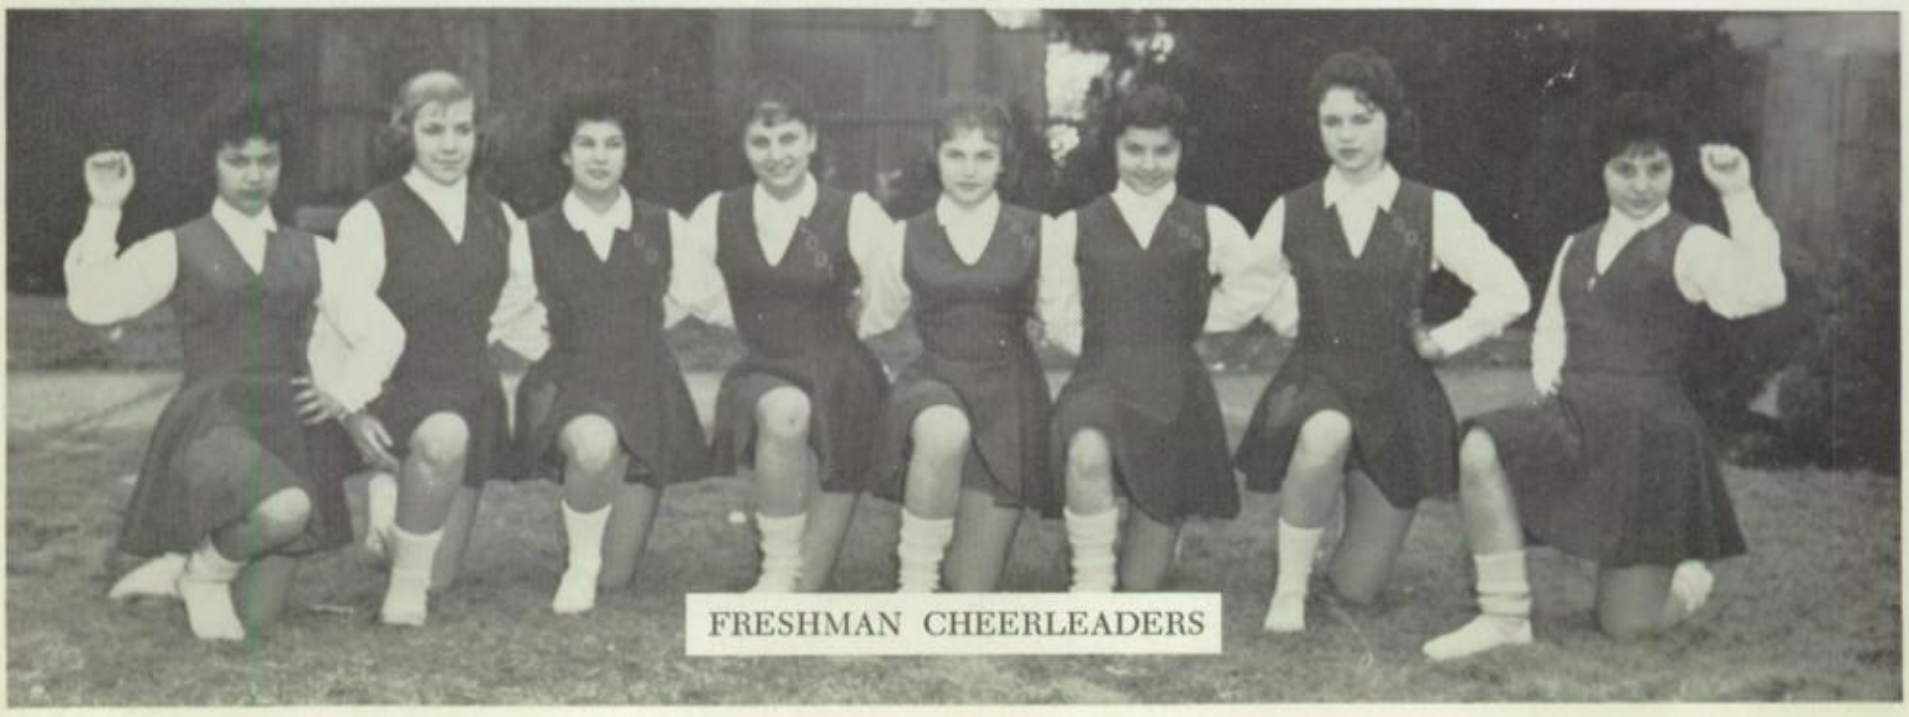
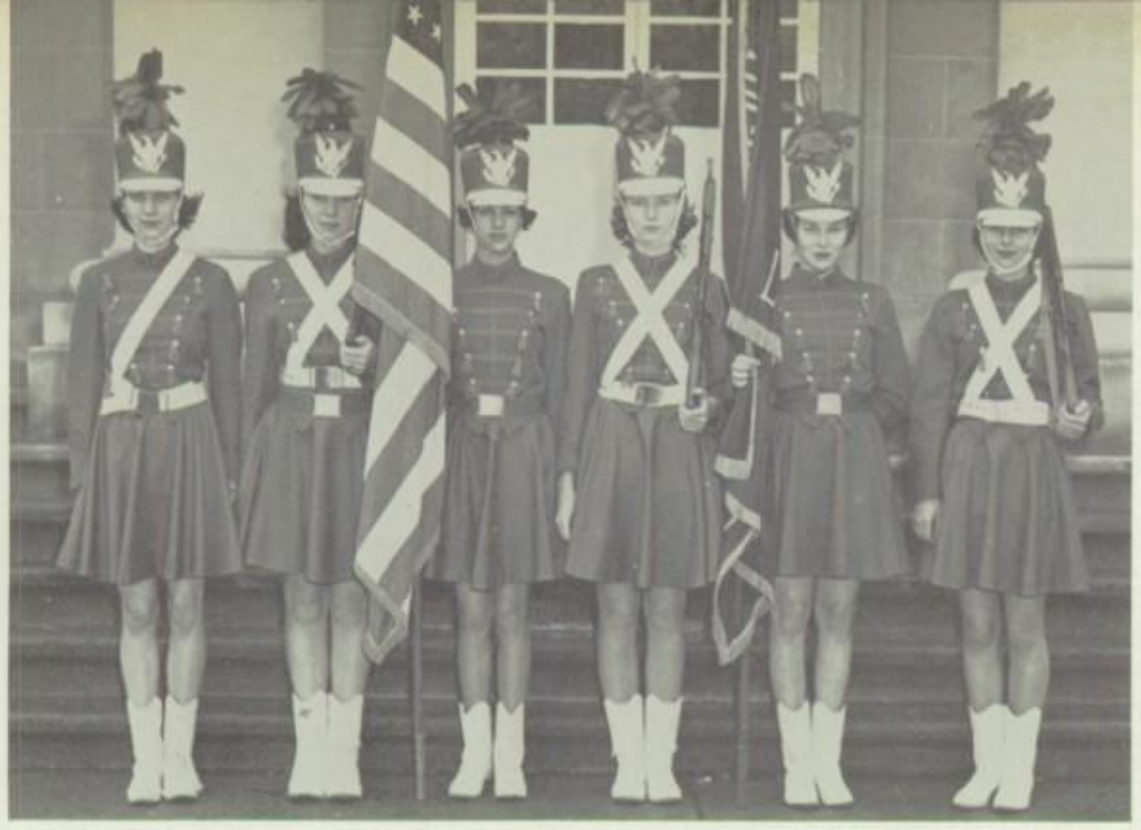
The cheerleaders, a group of eight girls, are chosen on the basis of agility and spirit. With a smile and a yell, they lead the loyal fans of Lodi High School in urging our team on to victory.



FRESHMAN CHEERLEADERS



Color Guards

Our precision color guard has given our band the dignity needed for a marching unit. The five girls operate as one — constantly stepping and moving in unison.

THERESA DELLA MAST

Majorettes

We have, this year, been awed and astounded by the interesting feats of our majorettes and twirlers. Not only have their intricate half-time routines fascinated us, but also their "Tea-for-Two" chorus girl routines at our assemblies. The fifteen girls have given our band the encouragement needed to be top-rate at such occasions as the North Jersey High School Band Festival at Clifton Stadium, and the High School Band Pageant at Teaneck Armory. In addition to giving the spectators enjoyment, our girls always look as though they themselves are enjoying their task.

Senior Play

"Elmer and the Love Bug," "Pajama Party," and "The Case of the Weird Sisters" were the three one act comedies presented by the Senior Class. Joe Cardella, Carol Berchesky, Patricia Puzio, and Frank Volpe played the leads in "Elmer and the Love Bug." "Pajama Party" was headed by Carmela Cina, Maureen Jackson, and Christine Giardino. The leading players in "The Case of the Weird Sisters" were Judy Bacco, Eileen Docherty, Kathleen Docherty, and Gail Corby.

This year for the first time, the plays were performed during the school day and also at night. They proved to be great financial successes.

Junior Promenade

On May 23, 1958, a beautiful moonlit evening, we entered the ballroom at Donohues for our Junior Promenade.

As we danced to the strains of our Prom song, "Moments to Remember," in a dream of flowers and stardust on this "Heavenly Spring" night, we watched the smiles on the faces of our King and Queen, Matty Di Charia and Beverly Boggio, as they were crowned by the prince and princess, Ken Vertucci and Pauline Costa. The happiness on the faces of the couples as they floated past made this evening truly memorable — one to remember forever.

Senior Ball

The magic of the Mardi Gras served as the theme of the Senior Ball presented by the Class of '59 at the Casa Mana on February 13, 1959.

The King and Queen, Richard Hoff and Carol Fragale were crowned by the Prince and Princess, Robert Kosak and Phyllis Carlino, after which the guests assembled for the Grande Promenade.

Slowly, the couples drifted off, dancing to the strains of their own special song, written for the event by Phyllis Carlino to the tune of "Always," with memories that will remain in their hearts forever.

Class

We, the Class of 1959, being blessed with inimitable intellect and being in an excellent state of mental and physical health do hereby pronounce this our last will and testament.

To Mr. Gaciofano, our principal, we bequeath our undying gratitude for his careful guidance during our four years at Lodi High School.

To Mr. Maggese, our vice principal, we leave a day of rest, without tardy and excuse students, which he so righteously deserves.

To Miss Svec and Mr. Piela, our senior advisers, we leave the hope that next year's class will be as nice a group as we.

To Mr. Tamborello, our yearbook adviser, we leave our heartiest thanks for helping us make this, our yearbook, a successful one.

To Mr. Lalumia and Mrs. Salva, our guidance directors, we leave our grateful appreciation for their help and guidance.

We bequeath to our successors, the Juniors, our front row seats in the auditorium, provided that they keep them as nicely as we have, leaving them free from chewing gum and preserving their beautiful luster.

To the Sophomores, we solemnly bequeath a deeper sense of duty and a broader view on life, which we hope will aid them in becoming the lordly Seniors that we were.

To the Freshmen, we leave nothing more than the expression of our hopes that they grow up to be as fine, mannerly, and bright as we are now.

To Mr. Groman, an assistant to help him collect yearbook money.

To the physical education teachers we bequeath new gym equipment. (We hope we have departed before it arrives.)

Cecelia Scibetta and Marie Cangialosi leave all the headaches that go with the yearbook to next year's editors.

To Mrs. Purita, we bequeath a staff of reporters who will get their stories in on time.

To Miss LeVow, a sign "silence." We know she will do the right thing with it.

To Mr. Scan, we leave a year free of accidents and broken test tubes.

To Mr. Feldman, a revised edition of Frank Volpe's Joke Book.

Lou March leaves a bottle of aspirins to next year's Student Council president.

Jim Abbey leaves his athletic ability to Gary Nardino.

The cousins Blanco leave their popularity to the cousins Peraino.

Sal Cagnina leaves his outstanding intelligence to Joe Nardino.

Marilyn May leaves her blankets to a cold-blooded junior girl.

To Mary Ann Toscano, Bevy Boggio's incessant chattering.

Will

Mirt Gall, Fran Guerriero, Marie Cangialosi, Marianne Surowiec, and Arlene Branca leave all their extracurricular activities to any girls who are willing to accept them.

Billy Pecoraro and Nancy Miller leave their meeting places in the hall to Barbara Socolowloski and Phil Tangora.

Frank Volpe bestows his school spirit to Joe Perconti.

Chic Baldino leaves her long eyelashes to anyone who needs them.

The Alpha's leave their pajama parties to the Hearts.

Frenchy leaves his French accent to a good ol' American.

Joe LiVecchi leaves his freckles to Andy Andoloro.

Diane Ragland bequeaths her cute smile to Elaine Fusco.

Mary Ann Surowiec leaves her cheering ability to Bernadette La Matina.

To a girl with naturally straight hair, Camille Atianese leaves her lovely long black locks.

Lou Mastriani leaves his crazy antics to Richie Verola.

Connie Costello leaves the fun of being engaged to Joyce Strunk.

Jade Parr leaves her pleasing personality to Marilyn Wojik.

Ed Gatti leaves his little black book to Frank Randaisi.

Pat Puzio and Carol Bercheski leave their leotogs to Fran Plescia and Barbara Del Greco.

Roe Villano leaves her big brown eyes to some junior girl who squints.

Nancy Miller bequeaths her quietness to Joyce Kowalic.

To Bill Cataliota, Lou Brindisi leaves his physique.

Gloria Chmiel leaves her blank expression.

Joe Gomes leaves his dancing ability to Bob Seppentino.

Arlene Oettel leaves her artistic ability to Cheryl Gross.

Arlene Branca and Ceil Scibetta bequeath their unseparable friendship to Roe Maio and Fay Buck.

Mary Dallio leaves her wardrobe to Joyce Lazzaro.

Pam Fedorsin leaves her footsteps for her sister Nancy to follow.

Jimmy Sweeney leaves his height to Richie Kastra.

Val Ingenito leaves gladly.

We hereby appoint our superintendent of schools, Mr. Della Penta and our principal, Mr. Gaciafano, executors of this will and revoke all former wills. In witness thereof, we have subscribed our name, this sixteenth day of June, One Thousand Nine Hundred Fifty-Nine.

THE SENIORS

Alma Mater

Near the Saddle River waters on a lofty hill,
Stands our noble Alma Mater graced in glory still.
Sing her praises never ceasing as we've always done.
Thee we honor Alma Mater, honor Jefferson.

From thy walls we'll go inspired
To be great in fame,
We who tread thy halls so stately
Ever love thy name.

Hail to thee, dear Alma Mater
Hail to the Orange and Blue,
May thy memory ever linger
And thy wisdom true.

Ring her praises — Never ceasing
As we've always done,
Thee we honor Alma Mater.
Honor Jefferson

Closing

. . . and now the first quarter of a century in the history of Lodi High School has drawn to a close, and along with it our own four years of scholastic and social achievement.

We have the future to look forward to — only the first chapter in our Book of Life has been written — the blank pages are yet to be filled.

The responsibility of the world is ours. It is up to us — the future engineers, teachers, businessmen, secretaries, scientists — to decide what this new world will be. It is for us to succeed where others have failed — to create brotherhood among nations.

We, the Class of 1959, thank you, Lodi High School, for preparing us for this future, and helping us toward better citizenship in both this great nation and in the world.
